Breast Cancer Screening Program for Women

According to www.nationalbreastcancer.org, clinical breast exams should be performed annually by your family physician or gynecologist. Breast self-exams should be performed on a monthly basis. Monthly self-breast exams can help women identify abnormalities more easily.

If you're uninsured and between the ages of 50 and 64, there's help available through the Florida Department of Health's Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program (BCCP) that offers free or low-cost screenings for those who are eligible. The DOH-Pinellas BCCP application is available online at

<http://pinellas.floridahealth.gov/programs-and-services/clinical-and-nutrition-services/bccp/index.html>

To have an enrollment package sent by mail, call (727) 824-6917.
